LOEB, LEOPOLD WILL PLEAD NOT GUILTY, REPORT

Attorney for Defense Makes Statement Regarding
Plea of Clients

WILL QUESTION STUDENTS Half Hundred College Mates of Slayers Will Be Heard at Trial

By Associated Press
Chicago—Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, the heirs to millions who have confessed the kidnapping for ransom and murder of Robert Franks
schoolboy, will plead not guilty.
This statement came Monday from Clarence Darrow, of attorneys for the defense, while States Attorney Robert E. Crowe was completing what his aids call the "perfect hanging case."

The prisoners, whose confessions
of the kidnapping and murder plot in detail already have been published with notes made by each, while the confession of the other was being read to him, are to be arraigned Wednesday morning before Chief Justice Caverly of the criminal court, on the indictments charging murder and kidnaping for ransom—both capital offenses in Illinois.

That is when the counsel for the boys will step forward, when the defendant's are asked whether they wish to plead guilty or not guilty.
"Not guilty," will be the plea then made, Mr. Darrow announced. Aside from the decision on the defendants'
plea, the case that has shocked the United States and even nations abroad, Monday was marked chiefly by the states attorney's efforts to combat an insanity defense.

WILL QUESTION STUDENTS A half hundred young men and women, fellow students of Loeb and Leopold at the University of Chicago, were being rounded up as witnesses. Through them Mr. Crowe expected to prove that Loeb and Leopold led nor- mal lives as students. He is expect- ed to ask them to testify that they noticed no peculiarities manifested by the two youths, Leopold, a law stu- dent, Loeb a postgraduate student of history.

How they conducted themselves in the classroom and on the campus will be the subject of the interrogation of the students. The underlying motive in this testimony is to show that Loeb
and Leopold could differentiate between right and wrong—the basic question the jury will be called upon to decide where the question of sanity is involved. That the defense will rest its case on the mental condition
of the two youths was indicated by the joint statement, last week of their fathers,
although the attorneys have made no statement hitherto relative to that point.

In their statement in which they declared they would not spend their millions in defense of their sons, but asked simple and solemn investigation under the law, touching the mental responsibility of their accused sons, the fathers, Nathan Leopold Sr.,
and Albert Loeb said: "If the accused boys are found by a jury to be not mentally responsible for their families,
accordance with their conscious duty towards the community, agree that the public must be fully protected from any future menace by these boys."

TWO DEAD AFTER CRASH IN RACINE

Racine—Death claimed two of the four persons who were riding in an automobile which was struck by a south bound North Shore line train
here Saturday. George F. Zunkle, aged 43, driver of the automobile, had a leg cut off and was so badly crushed that he died shortly afterward. His wife, Berta, 40 years, sustained a fractured skull, dying Sunday.

NEW CONCRETE DAM IS STARTED AT MARINETTE

Marinette—Construction of a $300,- 000 concrete dam across the Menominee river was begun here Monday for the M. and M. Paper Co. The new dam, which will be 450 feet long with a 20-foot base and a 10-foot top will replace a wooden structure known as the "first dam."

Badger Professor Tells Women
Minds of Loeb, Leopold in Barbaric Stage

By Associated Press
Valparaiso, Ind.—Professor M. V.
O'Shea of the University of Wisconsin said in an address prepared for delivery here Monday before the League of Women Voters and the Rotary club, under the auspices of the Childrens foundation, that all young persons manifest barbaric traits at one period or another in their development and pointed to the case of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, confessed murderers of Robert Franks, as "apparently cases of arrest in respect to restraint of cruelty."

"The statement made to the police and reporters as they have appeared in the newspapers indicate that these two men have not developed out of the barbaric stage in respect to cruelty,"
he said. "Normally, as children develop into youth, they gain such control over their actions that the taking of human life would be impossible especially in the way the Franks boy was murdered. Leopold and Loeb lack completely emotions of regret or horror or any pang of conscience over their brutal act, which is evidence that they are cases of arrested development on a low plane."

"The matter is so complex that we can not say definitely what causes
an individual's arrest on a barbaric plane in respect to one or another trait," he said.

He pointed out that Loeb and Leopold apparently were free from responsibility from earliest childhood
never were required to render services to anyone, and did not know what suffering, want or privation meant.

Professor O'Shea said that the Childrens foundation has for its task to study the conditions under which children can grow up in a normal,
natural way under the changing conditions in American life. He said that investigations made during the last ten years have shown constantly increasing instabilities of various kinds among the young.

DOISY COMPLETES FLIGHT OVER ASIA

Daring French Aviator Expected in Tokio on Last Leg
of Trip

By Associated Press
Tokyo—Successfully completing a hazardous and spectacular flight
across Europe and Asia to the far east, Captain Georges Pelelier Doisy, intrepid French aviator, landed at the army flying field at Fokokosawa, 15 miles northwest of here at 11:40 Monday morning.

He was given an enthusiastic reception by a group of several thousand spectators, which include the entire staff of the French embassy and Lieutenant General Yasumitsu, chief of the army aviation service.

Except for an accident at Shanghai which necessitated the use of a new plane from there to Tokorosawa, owing to damage to the machine in which he left Paris, Doisy's long hop
was remarkably devoid of mishap.
His flight from Paris to Tokyo in 45
days shattered by many weeks a previous flight record made by Italian fliers in 1920.

Captain Doisy was expected to arrive in Tokio Monday afternoon. An elaborate program of entertainment,
rivaling that recently accorded the American army around the world filers, has been arranged for him.

LACROSSE WILL GET REDUCED GAS RATES

Madison—Reduced gas rates in La Crosse were authorized Monday
by the state railroad commission on application of the city and the Northwestern States Power Co. The reduction will not save the city of approximately $14,200 annually, it is estimated. The reduction ranges from 5 to 15 cents per unit.

The commission also authorized the Wisconsin Valley Electric Co. to construct a dam over the Wisconsin river at Scott and Merrill, Lincoln-co., for power purposes. The project will cost approximately $200,000,
it is estimated.

Farmer-Labor Progressive League of Shawano and Out- agamie-cos United on Can- didate for Legislature.

The man whom the Farmer-Labor
and Progressive League of Outagamieco will support for state senator in the September primaries is John Englund, editor and publisher of the Wittenberg Enterprise.

A delegation of about 25 of the most prominent Progressives of Shawano co came with their man to the farmer-labor meeting and walked off with the nomination at the joint meeting in the Trades and Labor hall
Saturday evening.

Englund appeared to be the dark horse introduced by the Shawano delegation at the eleventh hour. It was at first thought that they intended to support a man named Wendt of Bendable. Outagamie co was known to have two candidates in the field
for senator or the 14th district comprising the two counties. They were Assemblyman Anton M. Miller
of Kaukauna and C. B. Ballard, Appleton, state treasury agent. Yet through outbidding the Shawano
group, Outagamie co delegates lacked the organization and unanimity of the supporters from the sister county, for on the first informal ballot
Englund had a majority of votes
over those for Miller and Ballard combined.

MILLER INDORSED

The only other indorsement of local candidates made by the county farmer-labor organization Saturday evening was that of Anton M. Miller
for reelection as state assemblyman
from the second district of Outa-gamie-co. Assemblyman Charles M.
Schmidt, Appleton, representing the First district, left the meeting early and made no announcement as to whether he desires to be a candidate for reelection. The statement was made in the meeting that he will not seek the nomination. A committee was appointed to make recommendations on the subject.

LA FOLLETTE FOR PRESIDENT

The state and national ticket indorsed was as follows: Senator Robert
M. La Follette for President; John Blaine for governor; Fred Zimmerman for secretary of state; Sol Levi-tan, for treasurer; Henry Huber for lieutenant governor. George J.
Schneider had been at a previous meeting indorsed for congressman
from the Ninth district.

Chief interest centered in the indorsement of a candidate for the nomination as senator of the Fourteenth district and discussion of this subject occupied the greater part of the meeting.

JANSEN IS SECRETARY

The meeting was presided over by Fred Buchman, president of the organization. Anton Jansen of Little Chute Saturday evening assumed the office of secretary in which he succeeded Fred V. Heinemann who recently was appointed county judge. William Eggert, treasurer, reported that only $18 remained from the campaign of two years ago and began selling memberships at $1 each and distributed membership books of ten membership tickets each for sale
among progressives of the county.

At the opening of the meeting
there was reading of telegram sent that evening from Washington by Congressman George J. Schneider in which he reported that congress had adjourned Saturday evening without giving relief to the farmers and leaving undone much valuable legislation,
all of which should stir the homefolks
with the realization that the fight
for progressivism must be fought with greater assiduity.

URGES COOPERATION

In his opening address, President
Buchman urged the need of cooperation and united effort among the progressive workers of Outagamie and Shawano-cos. He said that the

Cut Price Of Gas By City Sale, Is Plan

By Associated Press
Madison—A proposal that cities of the state go into the gasoline selling business unless there is an immediate reduction in existing prices, was made in a statement Monday by Edward Nordman, state commissioner of markets, following receipt of an opinion
from Attorney Ekern holding such action legal.

Commissioner Nordman declared that investigations made by the state department indicated that existing prices are excessive.

"The price that is being exacted
not only gouges the consumers, but attracts too many people into the business of distributing gasoline," Mr.
Nordman said. "I propose that municipalities themselves tackle the job
if those who control the business cannot handle it in a business-like way,"
the commissioner concluded.

FRENCH CABINET IS "MINISTRY OF DAY," PRESS SAYS

New Body Is Constituted Primarily to Present Millerand's Message

By Associated Press
Paris—The "ministry of a message"
is one of the names given to the cabinet formed by M. Francois-Marshall, inasmuch as it was constituted primarily to lay before parliament President Millerand's message explaining the political situation as he sees it,
and allowing the new majority of the left to go on record against him if it chooses, in which case he will resign.

Another appellation for the admittedly stop-gap administration is the "ministry of a day." However, if the anticipated program proves correct
the day will be considerably over 24 hours, for if and when M. Millerand resigns he will ask M. Francois-Marshall to carry on until a new premier is appointed by the new president and it is the present practice of the new company, the new chief executive from Versailles to Paris after the election, in accordance with tradition.

Francois-Marshall wins high praise
from the morning newspapers which are mostly opposed to the new majority in the chamber, for his courage in accepting office under the circumstances.

BOLTS CAUSE HUGE DAMAGE TO FARMERS

By Associated Press
Madison—Electrical storms in the Madison vicinity early Monday caused damage estimated at $20,000. A barn and three head of horses valued at $7,000, owned by Charles Brumm, Middleton, were burned after being struck by lightning.

At Cambridge, six horses and five head of cattle were burned to death when a barn owned by Arne
Olson was struck.

Several other structures were set afire near Madison during the storm.

Post-Crescent Gives Full Report Of Convention

A more comprehensive report than usually is found in newspapers printed in cities the size of Appleton, will be found in the Appleton Post-Crescent during the Republican national convention which opens in Cleveland on Tuesday. Arrangements have been made to give the Post-Crescent a convention service unsurpassed by any Wisconsin newspaper.

Leo V. Gannon, a member of this newspaper's organization, has been sent to Cleveland to report particularly on the activities of the Wisconsin delegation. His first article is printed on this page today.

David Lawrence will write daily letters from the convention floor, analyzing what is taking place.

Ring W. Lardner, nationally known humorist, will "cover" the convention from the angle that appeals to him.

A complete report also will be given by the Associated Press which maintains a staff of correspondents at the convention. Pictures and features will be supplied by the Newspaper Enterprise association.

PROGRESSIVES ARE PRAISED

Badgers Won't Bolt Convention
But Will Cast Vote for LaFollette

BY LEO V. GANNON

Cleveland, Ohio—The much talked of Badger bomb shell that is to be thrown into the cut and dried National Republican Convention, became an assured fact Monday morning with the announcement by Governor John J. Blaine that a minority report would be made on the floor of the convention in the form of a series of resolutions commending the progressives
in the house and the senate for their work, and condemning those implicated in the Tea Pot Dome scandals, and demanding a special session of congress immediately following the conventions for the purpose of making provisions to carry out the Soldiers Bonus Act, and to provide relief for the farmers of the northwest.

The resolutions to be offered by the Wisconsin delegation specifically commend Senators Brookhart, Coughens, Borah, Norris, Oddie Howell, David
Reed and LaFollette as well as a large number of representatives, and specifically condemn Albert Fall, former secretary of interior, and Harry
M. Daugherty, demanding that no Republican president appoint these men
to office again.

WON'T BOLT CONVENTION

Reports that the delegation will bolt
the convention are groundless, according to the delegates. They believe the convention is all pre-arranged but they will have the pleasure of casting
a vote for LaFollette when Coolidge
is nominated on the first ballot.

The delegates from Wisconsin were practically all in Cleveland Monday morning and plans were announced
for the official caucus to be held Monday to finish up the pre-convention
business ready for the opening Tuesday morning.

The nomination of Coolidge for the presidency being a foregone conclusion, the chief interest attaches to the office vice president and this has been intensified somewhat by the refusal of Frank O. Lowden, to be considered for the office.

DAUGHERTY IS THERE

While there is no hope for the adoption of the Wisconsin resolutions,
special interest is attached to them
because of the fact that Harry M.

SUSPECT MURDER OF GREEN BAY MAN

Single Cash on Forehead Marks
Body of Victim Found in Road

Green Bay — Murder and robbery
were strongly indicated in the death of Frank Lawinick whose body was found lying in a pool of blood on the Duck Creek road late Saturday night.

That he was struck by an automobile is discounted by the fact that only one mark was found on his body—
a deep gash which cleaved through the center of his forehead, crushing
the skull. The wound apparently was inflicted with a sharp instrument as a clean cut was made through the crown of the man's felt hat.

MISCONDUCT CHARGE HURLED BY BLAINE

BULLETIN

Madison—Gov. Blaine has sent an ultimatum to the state highway commission charging certain members
with "gross incompetency and inefficiency and official misconduct," and demanding a record vote on all the questions raised by the executive in his recent communications. It was learned officially Monday when the state highway commission went into session. The governor calls for an answer to his communication by June 11.

Delegations Are Busy Choosing Committees and Naming Representatives

BURTON IS DARK HORSE

James W. Good Takes Lead in Proposing Judge Kenyon for Vice Presidency

By Associated Press

Cleveland, O. — The convention
swirl is running at high tide. Vice presidential candidates are being carried about in their currents without being landed anywhere.

Delegations are busy caucusing,
choosing their selections to the convention committees and naming their representatives on the incoming national committee.

The platform builders Monday
were holding preliminary conferences and the platform itself began to take shape with the arrival of C. Bascom Slomp, secretary to President Coolidge, who conferred with Chairman
Warren of the resolutions committee,
William M. Butler, the president's campaign manager, and Frank W.
Stearns his friend and Warwick.

The Lowden boomers got their breath overnight and their feeling that the former governor of Illinois
could not eliminate himself by Sunday's declaration of the nomination gathered force.

Lowden is in Ohio Monday making a speech at Oxford. "What was sent him," "killed" that "his friends" at the convention, hoped he would not close the door further at this time. Meantime they buzzed about and found
a good many who expressed the view that Lowden ought to be drafted and could not possibly refuse.

The other booms were less active.
Kenness, in caucus, voted 23 to 1 for Charles W. Dawes. The other vote went for Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana. Despite the Iowa delegation's declaration for Representative Dickinson, there was a good deal of talk for Judge William S. Kenyon, former leader of the senate farm bloc,
who was offered the post of secretary of the navy but declined it.

GOOD PROPOSES KENYON

James W. Good, former Iowa congressman and western campaign
manager for the president, was taking a lead in proposing Judge Kenyon.

Minnesota added a new name to the list with a candidacy for Charles H. Hatch of Litchfield. The state delegation declined to endorse him.

In the dark horse list more talk was heard Monday for Dr. Marion Leroy Burton of the University of Michigan, who will place President Coolidge in nomination. Dr. Burton's friends hoped that there would be no definite crystallization of sentiment
on the vice presidency until after Dr.
Burton makes his speech and gives the convention an opportunity to see him in action.

It was apparent that a program of letting the white presidential situation
simmer a while was being fostered
all around. Secretary Hoover's name continued to hold its prominence in all the discussions. It was coupled with Dr. Burton and Major General Harbord, now president of the Radio corporation of America in a list of three. "It was said, would be among those acceptable to the White House."

HIGH CLIFF LIME KILN DESTROYED IN $100,000 FIRE

Big Stone Crusher and Lime
Plant Burns Sunday
Afternoon

A loss of $100,000 to the Western Lime and Cement company was caused when its lime kiln and lime crusher at High Cliff was burned to the ground Sunday afternoon in a fire that lasted several hours. The fire was discovered shortly after 2 o'clock by two watchmen, August Sternhagen and Arthur Nehls, who sent in telephone calls for help.

No workmen were employed in the kiln when the fire broke out. The cause was traced to a woodpile that started to burn from an unknown source. Nine large motors, used in operating the kiln, were destroyed in fire and a box car filled with paper bags also was burned.

The first call for the Sherwood fire department was sent at 2:27, followed shortly by a call for the Menasha department. Around 5 o'clock the building was completely destroyed, although the debris continued to smoulder on Monday.

People at Waverly beach Sunday afternoon were able to see the glow caused by flames from across the lake. The kiln is located near High Cliff and is well known to visitors
at the resort.

Cleveland, O.—Imperial Wizard H.
W. Evans of the Ku Klux Klan on his arrival from Atlanta Monday
came out with a declaration for Senator James E. Watson of Indiana as the Klan's candidate for vice president.

Senator Watson of Indiana immediately repudiated the statement issued by the imperial wizard. "I don't belong to the Ku Klux Klan," the senator said. "If they have issued a statement naming me, they have done
it for the expressed purpose of injuring me."

BANK ASSESSMENTS WILL BE ON STOCK VALUE BASIS AGAIN

Court Fight Sure to Grow Out of Tax Commission's Orders

Ad valorem taxes will be assessed against state and national banks in Wisconsin again this year, according to announcement of the state tax commission. These taxes probably will be paid under protest as in the past. The Citizens National bank has filed suit against the state now in an effort to collect similar taxes paid under protest. Banks generally feel that this tax is unfair.

The assessments will be made under the law passed by the 1923 legislature, under which banks of the state will be required to pay nearly $1,500,000 more in taxes than under the income tax system.

Building and loan associations, bond brokers and similar agencies are held by the commission's decision not to be in competition with banks and will not be assessed in the manner similar to banking institutions.

ADVISORY PROCEDURE

A letter was directed by the commission to all tax assessors in the state, advising the procedure for assessing banks. The commission's ruling is contrary to the contention of banking institutions of the state and will mean a test by the supreme court, probably to both state and national supreme courts.

In its letter to tax assessors, the commission declares that the law passed by the last legislature regarding assessment of taxes against banks does not apply to investment and loan firms because the method of assessing such firms is provided under other laws.

"Other individuals and organizations engaged in the securities investment and loaning business under the laws of this state are sharply differentiated from organizations engaged in banking," the commission's statement declares. "None of them are organized as banks or allowed to do banking business."

COMPETITION INCIDENTAL

"In so far as they compete with the banks at all, the competition is incidental and limited and it is believed that none of them can encroach on the main functions of banks or use the money capital in competition with them within the meaning of federal statutes."

"After an extensive investigation of the character and methods of business followed by these institutions, and receiving legal advice in reference thereto, the tax commission is of the opinion and respectfully advises all assessing officers that none of such individuals, companies or associations are engaged in the banking business and none of them are using money capital in competition with national banks as defined in the federal act, and that none of such institutions are required to be assessed in the same manner as banks."

The method for assessing state and national banks was prescribed by the commission as follows:

METHODS PRESCRIBED

1—By assessing all bank real estate to the banking company in the district in which such real estate is located.

2—By determining the cash value of the entire capital stock of each bank on the basis of its verified assets, liabilities and surplus.

3—By then deducting the assessed valuation of all real estate assessed to the bank from the aggregate value of its stock.

4—By dividing the balance of the stock assessment by the number of shares outstanding to determine the value of each share.

5—By multiplying the number of shares by each bank by the value of each share to determine the amount of its assessment.

OFFICER CANDIDATES SUBMIT TO EXAMINATIONS

Several candidates for commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps have been ordered to report for examination at the office of Major Albert Tucker. Among them are: Helm A. Huesner, Appleton; Attorney William H. Hancock, Waupaca; Edward A. Ueck, Hancock, Mich.; Capt. Clarence A. Loesch, Menasha; Frank Blaine Wood, Marinette; Dr. Theodore L. Knappstein, Greenville; Leon Root, Stanton, Wis.

Applications for entry to the Citizens Military Training Camp at Camp Center are coming in notwithstanding the quota has been filled. The names are being placed on the alternative list.

MANITOWOC COMPANY GETS THREE PAVING CONTRACTS

The Manitowoc Construction company will pave the three stretches of road which the Brown-co highway committee has decided to improve at this time. The combined contract amounts to $151,500.76. Six miles will be paved on the Humboldt road known as county trunk N. 4.75 miles will be paved on the Ridge road which is highway 78 while 1.25 miles is to be paved on the Democrat-Manitowoc road, which is part of highways 16 and 56.

Two Appleton firms figured on the roads, all of which are to be 16 feet in width. The Manitowoc figure on the Humboldt road was $91,222.22 while Simpson-Parker of Appleton was $55,655.72 and Koepke Bros. was $111,680.56. The Manitowoc company bid $48,453 on the Ridge road while Simpson-Parker bid $51,414.52. Neither Appleton concern bid on the Democrat road for which the Manitowoc company's bid was $23,665.04.

DISPUTE REPAIRS ON MAIL APPROACHES

A dispute as to who is responsible for the upkeep of the approaches to mail boxes on county patrolled roads has been revived on several rural mail routes leading out of Appleton. Deep ruts have been worn into the approaches of several mail patrons. It is said and the responsibility for repair seems in doubt.

According to John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, the duty of keeping the approaches in repair is that of the county patrolman, that is on roads of the county and state patrol systems, and only during the patrol season. Otherwise the county assumes no responsibility.

A. L. Busch, county highway commissioner, declared that all patrolmen have received instructions to take care of the mail box approaches on county and state patrolled sections, and that if there are complaints regarding the neglect of patrolmen, they should be forwarded to him.

No matter who is required to repair the approaches, the State patrol department makes the rural patrolman responsible to itself, and when an approach is deplorably neglected, the department withdraws postal service from that patron. It was declared by Postmaster William H. Zuehlke.

Schneider Is Given Bass For Badger Lakes

Washington, D. C.—The inland waters of Wisconsin are to be restocked with bass, perch, pike, and other fresh water fish fry, thanks to the efforts of Congressman Schneider. His decision was reached at a conference between Mr. Schneider, Congressmen Emory and Beck, State Conservation Commissioner Elmer S. Hall, and Commissioner O'Malley of the United States Bureau of Fisheries. The federal government will supply the fry which will be sent to designated points throughout the state in cars owned by the state. Distribution and planting will be done by experts, long skilled in this work. Application for restocking the lakes and streams must be made to Congressman Schneider, whose endorsement will be the only authority recognized by the Bureau of Fisheries.

No discount will be allowed on motor vehicle licenses until after July 1, contrary to common opinion. Secretary of State F. R. Zimmerman has declared. Moreover, no discount will be allowed after that time to used cars, the secretary said.

"A statement was published recently that there is a discount of 25 per cent in motor license fees after June 1 which is causing applicants much delay and the department considerable trouble," Secretary Zimmerman stated.

"Beginning July 1, there is a discount of 25 per cent on all new registration. This does not apply to old cars and no discount will be allowed except upon affidavit by the owner to the effect that he has not used the car prior to July 1.

"Dodging the law in the hope of obtaining the discount will not be profitable," the secretary warned.

WHAT SORT OF A GIRL DO THE BOYS LIKE?

The girl of today, herself a problem, has her own problem to face: "What kind of a girl must I be to be the sort of a girl the boys want me to be?"

This is the theme of "The Perfect Flapper," Colleen Moore's new starring vehicle, which is now on the screen at the Elite Theater. The modern girl is thoroughly diagnosed and analyzed by Jessie Henderson, the author, John Francis Dillon, the director, and Colleen Moore, the star. The result is said to be a picture which outdistances "Flaming Youth" as an epic of the jazz age.

In the role of Tommie Lou Pembler, Colleen Moore finds and lives up to her greatest opportunities. She has been surrounded by a superlative cast of all-star calibre with such brilliant heights as Sydney Chaplin, brother of the immortal Charlie, Phyllis Haver, celebrated Mack Sennett, both beauty, Frank Mayo, star in his own right, and many others of note.

John Francis Dillon, the noted director, is in special prominence these days due chiefly to his remarkable handling of Miss Moore's previous success, "Flaming Youth" and Corinne Griffith's "Lilies of the Field."

BAR SLOGANS ON ELECTION BALLOTS

Candidates for state offices in the September primaries cannot include a designation on the election ballot such as is authorized in the April election for delegates to the national convention, in the opinion of Attorney General Herman L. Ekern.

The secretary of state's office also has advised certain candidates that slogans cannot be included on the ballots.

In the April election, candidates were designated as "Pro Follette Progressive Republican." McAdoo candidates were so designated and likewise those favoring the candidacy of Governor Smith of New York were designated.

The ruling of the state department will prevent designation of the "LaFollette-Blaine" ticket. It is said. It is considered as highly important in view of the difference between certain state officials and Governor Blaine who is seeking reelection.

Requests are given to the secretary

Former Highway Engineer, Now Candidate for Governor, Writes to Bruzewitz

A. G. Bruzewitz, county highway commissioner and other employees of the highway commission have received copies of a letter from A. R. Hirst, former state highway commissioner. In the letter, Mr. Hirst compliments the workmen on what they have done in the development of highways. With the letter was included a copy of Mr. Hirst's resignation presented to Chairman Hotchkiss and Mr. Hirst's formal statement to the press announcing that he will be a candidate for governor of Wisconsin.

The letter said: "I have not abandoned our common cause; win, lose or draw, I am going to fight for the organization and the work which means so much to all of us and to Wisconsin."

SELL DELINQUENT TAXES ON TUESDAY

Approximately $60,000 in delinquent tax certificates will go to sale on Tuesday in the office of Miss Ziegenhagen, county treasurer. The original delinquent tax amounted to $80,000, but since the return of taxes, Miss Ziegenhagen has collected approximately $20,000 in back taxes. The delinquent tax sale Tuesday involves about 1,500 descriptions. On the same day all the properties

New Revenue Bill Removes 3 Per Cent Tax On Candy

Appleton candy eaters will be able to get 3 cents worth of candy more for every dollar box they buy after July 1, a date made historical by the enforcement of prohibition and the increase in sales taxes for candy manufacturers.

The news comes straight from A. H. Wilkinson, Milwaukee, collector of internal revenue for this district. The cancellation of the 3 per cent candy tax by congress will save the candy buyers of this country about $450,000 a year.

Other savings to be gained by the taxpayers are a 2 per cent tax on promissory notes, to be dropped July 3, which will save debtors about $60,000 a year; also the discontinuance of the tax on cutlery which will save the people about $4,000.

Mr. Wilkinson sent out notices this week to income taxpayers that a 25 per cent reduction will be in effect on individual income taxes. The reduction does not apply to corporations, however, but does apply to trust estates. In all cases where individuals have paid three-fourths of their taxes, no further payments will be due. If individuals have paid one-half of their tax, the third and last payment will be made Sept. 15. If when he filed his return he paid only one-fourth of the amount of tax reported, he will only be obliged to pay, on or before June 15, one half of the amount paid by him when he filed his return.

In handling the tax payment in this manner, the individual will be receiving credit on his June 15 installment of the excess paid at the time the return was filed, which results from the 25 per cent reduction incorporated in the new tax bill.

On which taxes have not been paid since the delinquent tax sale of June 14, 1921, will be conveyed to the holders of the first delinquent tax certificates, unless the properties are redeemed before Tuesday.

Fresh Fish on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. 940 Drew St. Tel. 1192W.

SEEK JOINT FORUM OF DINNER CLUBS

Appleton civic clubs will be asked by Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce, to consider a plan of joint forum meetings several times a year. The request will be made to the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs.

These organizations will meet jointly with the chamber of commerce to discuss and act upon certain community projects. A plan used at Butler, Pa., permits the clubs to conduct the first half of the luncheon period for themselves and keep a record of attendance, and hold a joint forum session for the last half. This idea has been the means of securing a greater unity of action in community accomplishment.

ROUTE 17 MAY TAKE TRAFFIC OFF "15"

Highway 17 will vie with highway 15 in popularity, when the concreting of that route is completed, and will incidentally relieve the congestion on the latter highway. Acceptance by the Manitowish water board of supervisors of the offer of the state highway commission of $100,000 federal and state aid for the completion of the concrete route to the Sheboygan line, will itself popularize the Milwaukee to Sturgeon Bay route.

The invigorating lake air will afford some relief from the sultry weather that prevails in summer in the interior of the state. The scenic grandeur of the lake route also is especially inviting. It is pointed out by cities on the highway. Tourists are enthusiastic about the fine bathing beaches and piers and breakwaters for fishing with hook and line.

THE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

Congress has voted to submit the ratification of the states a child labor amendment to the federal constitution. This course, which should never have been necessary for the protection of children against industrial and commercial greed, is imposed by decisions of the supreme court holding unconstitutional acts of congress to regulate child labor through the exercise of its taxing powers and its control over interstate commerce.

The amendment is admirably drawn. It authorizes congress to limit or prohibit the employment of children under eighteen years of age. It does not say that children under that age shall not be permitted to work, but empowers congress to decide to what extent and in what form they may or may not be employed. Congress can forbid employment of all children under, say twelve or fourteen years if it so desires, and permit those above that age to work. It may permit children of any age below eighteen to work part time, and it may prescribe the conditions under which they shall be employed. In other words, the control over the labor of children who have not yet reached eighteen years of age is wholly within the discretion of congress. Had the eighteenth amendment been drawn with similar latitude, it probably would have been more satisfactory and more enforceable.

Control of child labor may be sensibly or foolishly applied. It is, of course, absurd to say that no boys under eighteen years of age shall work, or under sixteen, or under fifteen. Part time employment for boys of these ages is wholesome, invigorating and generally beneficial, provided only it is the right kind of employment and the hours, surroundings and other conditions are not inimical to their health. Millions of successful men date their real start in life from the time they first commenced to work at an early age. What is wrong about child labor is its use for exploitation of young persons, to the detriment of their health, education and future earning power. The proposed amendment will meet with opposition in the south and in some sections of the west. Some seventeen states were represented in the vote against the amendment. They are not sufficient, however, to defeat ratification and in all probability this greatly needed constitutional change will be authorized in the relatively near future.

THE PRESIDENT'S "UNDERSTUDY"

In connection with the growth of opinion that a vice-president should not only be a statesman of first rank but should be more in touch with the activities of government, an article in the American Historical Review is timely in bringing forward what is known of the originally intended or attempted relations of the vice-president and cabinet. It is shown that in 1791 Washington notified the secretaries of state, treasury and war that in his absence he wished the vice-president consulted. It also appears that President Taylor supposed that the vice-president could be an ex-officio member of the cabinet until he was advised that there was no such provision. President Wilson invited Vice-President Marshall to preside over the cabinet during his absence in Europe and Mr. Marshall so served from December 18, 1918 to February 25, 1919. President Harding went still further, bringing into cabinet counsels Vice-President Coolidge, who became the first vice-president regularly to serve as an ex-officio cabinet member and this he did during more than two years.

Mr. Coolidge's extensive cabinet experience seems likely to set a precedent, for it is more and more recognized as desirable that a vice-president should be actively in touch with what is doing and what is proposed at the seat of government in order to be in training for the great office he may be called on to occupy. Furthermore, it is time we commenced to put a greater valuation on the vice-presidency than we have in the past. The numerous instances in which the vice-president has succeeded to the presidency demand that we select for this office men of the highest integrity and of large capacity. It is particularly important that discriminating selections be made this year, for there are strong possibilities that the person elected to this office may in fact become president.

THE NEW IMMIGRATION LAW

Apart from the Japanese exclusion feature it seems to be pretty generally recognized that the new immigration law is an improvement, providing beneficial changes in the previous immigration regulations. It limits the number of immigrants annually until 1927 to 161,000, and thereafter to 150,000. In addition, and over and above such temporary sojourners as travelers, business men and others, so called non-quota immigrants may be admitted without numerical limitation. These include the unmarried children under 18 years of age and the wife of an American citizen. They also include immigrants previously admitted and returning after a temporary absence abroad. It is estimated that the women and children alone, for a number of years will add another 150,000 to the number coming from Europe.

It is further provided that native-born citizens of any of the countries of the Western hemisphere shall be admitted without regard to numbers. Judging from the record for the last two years, at least 200,000 such persons may be expected to enter each year. During the first half of the current immigration year 103,000 Canadians and Newfoundlanders entered and nearly 60,000 Latin-Americans. The numbers from these sources are likely to increase in proportion to the decline in the number of Europeans. An annual immigration of about 500,000 from all sources is thought likely in spite of the restrictions of the new law. It is believed the readjustment and improvement in machinery will do away with the rejection of persons because their quota had been filled while they were on the water, which led to much hardship and inevitably caused bitter criticism.

If we omit the Japanese exclusion clause, which should never have been in the bill, the new restrictions are eminently sound and represent a correct national policy. Our experiences of the last twenty years have proven conclusively that the addition of alien ingredients into our population was altogether too large for assimilation. We were pouring down our throat too much raw material for Bolshevism for the good of any normal stomach, and we have as a result had a number of acute attacks of indigestion as a timely warning. The new immigration policy is that of "America for Americans," and that is the policy we need. We have too long tolerated and even invited those opposed to our institutions to come here and abuse our hospitality. There is no occasion for making this country an asylum for the oppressed of other lands. If they are oppressed in other lands it is because they wish to be, and those of this opinion who come here are led to believe by our agitators that this is also a land of oppression. Such immigrants we do not desire and should not permit to enter. It would not do any harm if we closed our doors to those immigrants whose digestibility we have any reason to question. We have enough of them within our borders to keep us busy with the work of assimilation for years to come.

You can trust some people out of your sight and can't trust others until they are out of your sight.

SECOND WIND

Every real boy knows what second wind is. The athlete who is well trained gets his second wind just about the time the poorly trained runner drops out "winded," about three minutes after the start of a race. In the third quarter mile stretch, it is a grand glorious feeling. If I may borrow the expression of Mr. Briggs, "It is a sudden relief from the distress or agony of breathlessness, the movements of the chest and belly being suddenly freed of seeming restraint and amplified, the excursions of the diaphragm being increased, and the ventilation of the blood by the lungs being consequently improved. At the time of second wind the right ventricle of the heart, which pumps blood to the lungs, expands or dilates sufficiently to accommodate the increased volume of blood being pumped. It is right here that the vital question of athletic training in youth intrudes itself. If the athlete has been intelligently trained, and the control and direction of a scientific medical director and not the uneducated amateur or professional "trainer," that too often holds such a post, the heart is hypertrophied and the enlarged heart muscle is free to recover from the stretching or dilation. The poorly trained heart muscle lacks this vitally essential capacity and the youth who undertakes such contests with the inadequate training which the quack "trainer" gives, endangers his whole future health and career.

No boy of high school age should ever be permitted to enter a mile race or even a 440 yard or 400 meter race, for these are tests of a man's endurance and the most careful training is necessary for safety, to say nothing of success in such contests, and rarely can the growing boy have the physical training these tests demand without risk of impairing his general vitality. We must not lose sight of the most important thing in youth—growth and development—and it is most unwise to divert a boy's energy to other and minor pursuits during this period of his life. Physical education he should have, every day of his life, compulsory physical training as a requisite for promotion from grade to grade in school. But let it be intelligent physical training, under the undivided direction of the health and physical instructors in the school.

Second wind and endurance are mainly questions of the development, enlargement and physiological dilatability of the heart. Of course other factors enter into the question of second wind. It isn't wholly a matter of furnishing more oxygen to the blood. Inhalation of oxygen from a tank affords only partial or temporary relief to the breathlessness brought on by severe exertion. Probably there is some action on the part of the adrenal glands, whose internal secretion or hormone has an effect in the blood and tissues comparable with the spark in a gasoline engine—increases oxidation or combustion. The role of the adrenal system is an important one in athletic training and in contests of speed and endurance. Like the development and safe dilatability of the heart, it is probably subject to intelligent training.

The short races, sprints, tests of speed but not of endurance, are the kind for high school boys to enter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Beware of Smiling Broadly

Is it possible for a grown person to strain their mouth by smiling broadly? (Mrs. A. G. J.)

Answer.—When the smile reaches the danger stage let go and laugh. That relieves the strain.

Kindly explain what paranoid dementia precox is and tell me whether it is inherited. If a person took the wrong medicine could that cause it? (M. R.)

Answer.—Dementia precox is mental deterioration in early life. Paranoia is more familiar as monomania, the form of insanity in which there are systematized delusions, usually delusions of persecution. The paranoid type of dementia precox is characterized by certain persistent delusions. A neurotic taint in the family is commonly noted in the history of dementia precox. Taking the wrong medicine could scarcely cause insanity. Undue worry over having done so would be more likely a symptom of paranoid dementia precox.

Live Megaphone Is Coming To G.O.P. Meeting

There wont be as much New York noise at the Republican national convention in Cleveland next month as there will be at the Democratic convention in Madison Square Garden but everybody attending the former convence from Maine to California will know that New York is on the job. For Lafayette B. Gleason, secretary of the New York Republican committee, will be secretary of the convention.

"Life" Gleason is known as the human megaphone of the Delaware mountains. He hails from Delhi, Delaware County and his voice can be heard above the din of a thunder storm. He has been secretary or assistant secretary of Republican national conventions as far back as Delhi can remember. He came to New York to the Republican state committee in 1890. The next year he was made chairman of the speaker's bureau, and could outtalk all the other speakers.

He was assistant secretary of the Republican national convention at Chicago that nominated Taft in 1908. When he read the first roll call no one had to strain his ears to hear him. A partly deaf delegate in one of the back rows shouted back at him: "A little lower, please!"

Mr. Gleason was secretary of the conventions which nominated Hughes and Harding in 1916 and 1920. He has been a delegate to the national convention since 1912. This time a woman is going in his place from Delaware County, but "Life" will be there in the best of form for oratorical exercise or the creation of vocal thunder.

"Delhi," said the secretary of wondrous tones, "is the greatest center of population. Within a radius of 200 miles from the town we have, perhaps, more population than any other city in the world. It is a wonderful Republican community and is the county seat of Delaware, the second agricultural county in the state. We, of Delaware, line up with the rattlesnakes of Pike county, of Pennsylvania, and the bears of Sullivan county. The hills of Delaware are so deep that the bears go down them backward."

And it is a legend of Delaware country that when "Life" Gleason speaks to the bears above a whisper they go back again.

Home Discipline Curbs Divorce

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

WHY DIDN'T JESUS WRITE BOOKS?

The curious question was asked me, "What do you suppose was the reason that Jesus of Nazareth never wrote a book?" And perhaps the only answer that any one can give to such a question is "I wonder."

There is perhaps not another figure in all history about whom so many books have been written. There is hardly a literature in the world which shows his brief life that has not been directly or indirectly affected by his teachings, with the exception perhaps of much of Roman literature during the first century of the Christian era and such Greek literature as was still being written during that century. But both were already literatures of decadence before the Christian era opened.

The idea suggests itself that if Jesus had written a book or books, clearly setting forth his teachings, it is likely that thousands of other writers since his brief life that has not been directly or indirectly affected by his teachings, with the exception perhaps of much of Roman literature during the first century of the Christian era and such Greek literature as was still being written during that century. But both were already literatures of decadence before the Christian era opened.

Some of our previous conceptions of what it means to be a good homemaker and of what is involved in training girls for the job of home-making must be revised. A girl can not get all the training she needs in her mother's home. For a private home is no more equipped to prepare her for the home-making job than it is to take over all the other problems of educating her.

NO BOOKS BY LINCOLN

It is a remarkable fact that, coming down to our own day, Abraham Lincoln never wrote a book either. He wrote speeches and thousands of letters that have since been collected in book form, making some ten or a dozen large volumes. But those volumes are not books, properly speaking. The only unity they have is the personality of the writer and the tradition that clings around his magic name. Lincoln never sat down with deliberate intent to become the author of a book. And that in spite of the fact that he had a command of pure and beautiful English that has seldom been surpassed in American literature.

Thousands of books have been written about him but Lincoln himself never sent a manuscript to a publisher and then waited hopefully and anxiously as to what his verdict might be. And yet it is likely that a single volume from his pen would be of greater interest today than a thousand volumes about him. It might at least have prevented the worst extravagance of the "Lincoln Legend," one of the most remarkable legends in American history. Why he did not do it is a mystery to which there is perhaps no answer. The most probable reason in my opinion is the very simple one that he did not have time for it. Until he entered the White house he had a constant struggle to keep the wolf from the door as a lawyer, and during his four years in office there was naturally not a minute to spare.

DIFFERENCE OF METHOD

Why some great men of history have written books while others who were just as great or greater and who influenced the life of the world just as much or more have not done so can probably not be explained by any generalization. In many cases some trivial accident of life like poverty may be the explanation. That and the fact that some men express themselves in the writing of books, others in other ways. And the method native to the person using it is the best for him. It is not at all certain that Lincoln would have written a great book. Jesus of Nazareth evidently felt that he could get his message broadcasted more effectively and more quickly reaching it by word of mouth by a number of followers than by setting it down on papyrus. He used one method of publishing, the writers of books use another method. Both have their advantages and their disadvantages.

The Tangle

I hesitated, little Marquise, before I started to tell of the gossip that was going around town. As it to change the subject from what Ruth had told me to something entirely foreign, Jack spoke, "When had you planned to go down to mother's, Leslie?"

"I had expected to go Thursday or Friday of this week, but now I think I'll wait a week. You don't mind—do you? She is perfectly well now, Jack, and it will not make much difference if I do not go right away, will it?" I made my voice as casual as possible.

"No, I don't think it will make any difference at all," Jack answered in the same tones.

From the relieved intonation of his voice I knew, little Marquise, that he had heard the gossip and was glad I was going to stay home during Paula Perier's visit. Realizing this, I felt quite relieved that now I only need tell him as much of the story as I pleased.

We always shrink from saying things that will humiliate those we love, unless they are very angry with them. I hope I shall never be angry enough at Jack to say unforgivable things, for I have a peculiar disposition little Marquise that makes it impossible for me to forgive a great wrong.

Of course, I fly into a regular fury at times, but that is just a brain storm. I sincerely hope I shall never feel that slow anger toward my husband that I have felt once or twice in my life; an anger that has burned out every emotion but hatred from my soul.

Jack cooled down greatly when he found I was not going to his mother's as soon as I had planned. He sat down in his chair again and took up the paper as though he had determined upon a long cozy evening at home.

Presently he said, "I see Paula Perier is going to make a personal appearance here this week."

"Yes, it was about the advertisement on the billboard that you ordered taken down that Ruth told me the gossip."

"I won't have Ruth Ellington gossiping about me," he said angrily again. "She ought to be trying to keep her own name out of scandalous mouths instead of retelling what is said about others."

"I won't have it, Jack. Ruth Ellington has never in her life done anything that would call for criticism from any decent man or woman. She has been unfortunate in her selection of a husband—that is all. She seldom gossips. The reason why she related to me what is being said about you is that she wanted to persuade me to stay away from your mother for a while, at least until Miss Perier's visit is over.

"As it was, she didn't say very much because, before she could do so, I told her I really did know the parentage of Jack."

"What did you say to her?" asked Jack quickly.

"I told her I knew Sydney Carton was his father."

Minor but Mighty Details

Vases, flower bowls and etchings are waiting to go into rooms seeking to attain summer deliciousness. They are important details to groups, not at all expensive.

The bright light of a pretty lamp supplies a group, sometimes, with just the color it needs. Lamps for the table with pottery base and parchment shade are priced at $7.75 today.

Especially in summer do mirrors make rooms look larger and cooler. That is why you should select one or two now. Many shapes, nicely framed in mahogany, $10.50 to $23.50.

MISS KRAUS IN LEAD
ROLE OF CLASS PLAYInteresting Story Will Be Told
by Seniors in "The Charm School"

Kaukauna—Miss Arla Kraus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kraus, has been chosen to play the part of Miss Hayes, teacher in the girls' boarding school about whom all the action revolves in the annual high school senior class play "The Charm School" which will be given Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium. Miss Hayes is loved and feared by all and is very much opposed to Austin Bevans' plans for the school. She very much desires to become head of the institution and believes that by opposing Bevans she can realize her ambition. The position is finally secured for her through the efforts of Mr. Jones, a noted lawyer, who, by the way, has been constantly interested in the little teacher. That part will be taken by Lloyd McCarty.

Jacob Kovdie will be David MacKenzie, professor of the American history classes and a great friend of Austin Bevans. MacKenzie is a retired lawyer and has eyes for Miss Curtis, secretary of the girls' boarding school, who is an excitable creature and who has an exceptionally good opinion of the girls of the school. Seats for the play may be reserved at Brauer's drug store on Wisconsin and at Look's drug store on Second. The play is scheduled to begin promptly at 8:15.

New London—New London will not object to the railroad commission of Wisconsin granting the petition of the Northwestern railway asking for permission to discontinue trains No. 123 and No. 129, which run through here at 7:16 p. m. and 9:13 p. m. until Dec. 1, 1924. This train was the one put on March 3 following an order of the railroad commission.

The Chicago & Northwestern railway petitioned the commission for permission to discontinue these trains during the summer months when motor cars are widely used. The railroad company presented rather detailed figures to show that the trains were being run at a loss.

APPEARS REASONABLE
The railroad commission in a letter to Giles H. Putnam, former city attorney, declared that "the commission is inclined to feel that this proposal is a reasonable one and, if petitioners in this proceeding are willing to consent to the same, the commission is ready to enter an order authorizing the discontinuance of the trains in question at the time and requiring their restoration on Dec. 1, 1924."

Mr. Putnam, after taking the matter with various persons here wrote the commission that "it was the sentiment of all that the railway company is justified in asking the discontinuance of trains No. 123 and 129 and that insofar as the city of New London is concerned, there will be no objection made to the issuance of an order by the commission for the immediate discontinuance of this train service."

NO OBJECTION
"We have been expecting this request for some little time and no objection would have been made a month ago if the company had then asked for this order."

"I want to add that there is no business in the city of New London that is so unreasonably as to ask that some other business concern continue in business at a loss.

"There is also another feature that enters into the question that no objection is being interposed and that is that the C. & N. W. Ry. Co. is about again to install for the summer season its through service from Chicago to the Land of Lakes and return and if they will again issue orders that these trains stop on flag at New London for passengers going south to Milwaukee or points farther south will again be taken care of in fine shape."

The company's figures show that between March 3 and May 3 only 4,531 passengers were carried, with a total revenue from passengers, milk, and cream of $1,613.88. The trains operated 7,128 miles, with gross earnings of $5,825 per train mile. The actual cost of operation was $7,840.80, resulting in a loss of $3,683.94.

The cost of operation thus given did not include items for maintenance, interest, depreciation, taxes, etc., the railroad claims.

Clintonville and Marion will agree to the removal of the train, Mr. Putnam said.

It seems likely that the train will be taken off very soon.

APPLETON AGAIN IN LIST OF HIGH TAX RATE CITIES

State Report Shows Appleton
Folks Carry Heavy Taxation Load

Although Appleton is again near the top of the list in the high tax cities of Wisconsin, it is below the average true value tax rate, based upon the true value of assessed property, it is evident from a bulletin just issued by the state tax commission. With an assessment of $27,694,940 last year and a general property tax levy of $902,810, the actual tax rate for the city amounted to $32.60 on every $1,000 worth of taxable property and its per capita tax amounted $46.16.

The city had the second highest tax rate, and was led only by Superior whose tax rate was $34.10 per $1,000 of taxable property. In the per capita tax, Appleton ranked third, being preceded by Madison with $63.03, and by Milwaukee with $46.25. The comparison is made only with the larger cities of the state mentioned below.

Greenwood had the highest tax rate with $61.50, and Buffalo City had the lowest tax rate with $10. The average true value tax rate of all cities of the state last year was $29.60. The largest tax levy, outside of Milwaukee, is that of Madison with $2,419,050. Its assessed valuation was $91,868,578.

The true value tax rate, which is based upon the true valuation of property as fixed by the tax commission using the three year sales average, forms a more proper basis of comparison. Appleton's true value tax rate was $24.70, which is $5 below the average true value rate in the state, and fifth highest in the cities of the state of Appleton and over. In Appleton the ratio of the assessed value to the true value of property was 75.91 per cent. The average per capita assessment was $1,691.70.

The following is a summary of the tax rates of the leading cities:

City	True Value Rate	Assessed Value Rate	Per Capita Tax

Leadership Qualities Won Journey To Europe

J. Alden Behnke, Appleton youth, one of the two Wisconsin young men selected to embark for Europe June 21, on a "friendship tour" with 19 other youths, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association of North America for the advancement of international amity, has had a brilliant career here.

The trip covering ten weeks, is to be made in accordance with a resolution adopted by the League of Nations assembly.

Behnke was selected because of his outstanding leadership qualities, as were the other boys of the party. The following honors and achievements are said to have contributed to his selection:

Valedictorian Appleton high school 1923. Average high school grade 93.41; cashier Appleton high school bank; president of the H. Y. club; member of glee club; advertising manager high school musical comedy "Pinafore."

Second place, extempore speaking contest; commencement speaker; second place, oratorical contest; participated in five inter-scholastic debates, victorious in four.

Winner of Brokaw Latin Prize, Lawrence college; delegate International Student Volunteer Movement convention, Indianapolis, Dec. 28, 1923.

Vice president, Wisconsin Older Boys' conference 1922; leader Pioneer boys club 1921; president local older boys' council; present master counselor John F. Rose chapter, order DeMolay; member Lawrence college debate team.

In connection with the trip, Mr. Behnke says: "Our group will tour Europe with boys from each of the countries visited. We will endeavor to get the European boys' viewpoint and not pose as their superiors. Our first duty will be to lay aside all prejudices. We ought to return broader men and deeper in our appreciation of our brothers across the sea. "Europeans with whom we come in contact will be studying us closely, and to some extent will judge American youth by us. Cooperation of Surrounding Country Is Sought for Annual Exhibition

The Seymour County fair is now being organized for the season of 1924. The dates are Aug. 13, 20, and 21. Officers are intensely interested in its success and are determined that although former fairs have been praiseworthy, the one for this year, if their attention, labor and persistence will accomplish it, will be preeminently a record breaking event, according to George F. Fiedler, secretary.

The cooperation of this community with the fair directors has helped to make the Seymour fair one of the premier fairs of the state, and the same cooperative effort is being enlisted for the coming season.

Reports from all parts of the state and nearby counties show great interest in the fair, and it is expected

DETROIT LADY TELLS FACTS IN HER CASE

"Indigestion Made Life Miserable; I was Nervous, Weak and Depressed—Tanlac Ended My Troubles."

"I simply wouldn't trade my good health for a fortune," recently asserted Mrs. Jennie Shirk, 1538 Kirby-St., Detroit, Mich., in speaking of what the Tanlac treatment has been worth to her.

"About three years ago indigestion got such a firm hold on me that it made life miserable. My meals, although very light, were always followed by gas-pains and heart palpitation, and I felt nervous, weak and depressed. My sleep was restless, my head and body achy and my energy had about all left me.

"Since Tanlac has ended my troubles and made me well and strong again I believe I am one of the happiest persons in the world. I now rejoice in a wonderful appetite, peaceful nerves, a fine complexion and splendid health. Tanlac has earned my life-long praise."

SO BIG
By Edna Ferber

Selma had taken the cover off her vegetables. They were revealed crisp, fresh, colorful. But Selma knew they must be sold now, quickly. When the leaves began to wilt, when the edges of the cauliflower heads curled ever so slightly, turned brown and limp, their value decreased by half, even though the heads themselves remained white and firm.

Down the street came the buyers—little black-eyed swarthy men; plump, shirt-sleeved, greasy men; awkward, tobacco-chewing men in overalls. Stolid red Dutch faces, sunburned. Lean dark foreign faces. Shopping, chatter, turmoil.

"Heh! Get your horse outta here! What the hell!"

"How much for the whole barrel?"

"Got any beans? No, don't want any cauliflower. Beans?"

"Tough!"

"Well, keep 'em, I don't want 'em." "Quarter for the sack."

"Gwan, then ain't five-pound heads. Bet they don't come four pounds to the head."

"Who says they don't?"

"Gimme five bushels them."

Food for Chicago's millions. In and out of the wagons. Under horses' hoofs. Bare-footed children, baskets on their arms, snatching bits of fallen vegetables from the cobbles. Gutter Annie, a shawl pinned across her pendulous breasts, scavenging a potato there, an onion fallen to the street, scraps of fruit and green stuff in the ditch. Big Kate buying carrots, parsley, turnips, leeks, all slightly wilted and cheap, which she would tie into bunches with her bit of string and sell to the real grocers for soup greens.

The day broke warm. The sun rose red. It would be a humid September day as frequently came in the autumn to this lake region. Garden stuff would have to move quickly this morning. Afternoon would find it worthless.

Selma stationed herself by her wagon. She saw the familiar faces of a half dozen or more High Prairie neighbors. These called to her, or came over briefly to her wagon, cycling her wares with a calculating glance. "How you making out, Miss Dejong? Well, you got a good load there. Move it along quick this morning. It's going to be hot I betcha." Their tone was kindly, but disapproving too. Their look said, "No place for a woman. No place for a woman."

The peddlers looked at her bunched bouquets, glanced at her, passed her by. It was not unkindness that prompted them, but a certain shyness, a fear of the unaccustomed. They saw her pale fine face with its great sombre eyes; the slight slim in the decent black dress; the figure brown hands clasped so anxiously to her. Her wares were tempting but they passed her by with the instinct that the ignorant have against that which is unusual.

My nine o'clock trading began to fall off. In a panic Selma realized that the sales she had made amounted to little more than two dollars. If she stayed there until noon she might double that, but no more. In desperation she harnessed the horse, threaded her way out of the swarming street, and made for South Water Street farther east. Here were the commission houses. The district was jammed with laden carts and wagons, exactly as the Haymarket had been, but trading was done on a different scale. She knew that Peruvus had sometimes left his entire load with an established dealer here, to be sold on commission. She remembered the name—Talcott—though she did not know the exact location.

"Where we going now, Mom?" Tan boy had been almost incoherently patient and good. He had accepted his bewilderment, new surroundings, with the adaptability of childhood. He had revealed richly in Chris Egan's meek, generous breakfast. He had thought the four dusty artificial palms that graced Chris's back room luxuriantly tropical. He had been fascinated by the kitchen with its long gleaming range, its great tables for slicing, paring, cutting. He liked the ruddy cheer of it, the bustle, the mouth-watering smells. At the wagon he had stood sturdily next his mother, had busied himself assisting her in her few pitiful sales: had plucked wilted leaves, brought forward the freshest and crispest vegetables. But now she saw that he was drooping a little as were her wares, with the heat and absence from accustomed soil. "Where we going now, Mom?"

"To another street, Sobie!"

"Dirk!"

"Dirk, where there's a man who'll buy all our stuff at once—maybe I won't that be fine! Then we'll go home. You help mother find his name over the store. Talcott—T-a-l-c-o-t-t."

South Water Street was changing with the city's growth. Yankee names they used to be—Flint—Keen—Rusk—Lane. Now you saw Curcio—Meleg—Garibaldi—Campagna. There it was: William Talcott. Fruits and vegetables.

William Talcott, standing in the cool doorway of his great deep shed-like store, was the antithesis of the feverish crowded street which he so calmly surveyed. He had dealt for forty years in provender. His was the unruffled demeanor of a man who knows the world and must have what he wants to sell. Every weekday morning at six his dim shaded cavern of a store was packed with sacks, crates, boxes, barrels from which peeped ruffles and sprigs of green; flashes of scarlet, plum-colored, orange. He bought the best only: sold at high prices. He had known Peruvus, and Peruvus's father before him, and had adjudged them honest, admirable men. But of their garden truck he had small opinion. The Great Lakes beats brought him choice Michigan peaches and grapes; refrigerator cars brought him the products of California's soil in a day when out-of-season food was a rare luxury. He wore neat, pepper-and-salt pants and vest; shirt sleeves a startling white in that blue-shirted overalled world; a massive gold watch chain spanning his middle; square-toed boots; a straw fedora set well back; a pretty good cigar, unlit, in his mouth. Shrewd blue eyes he had; sparse hair, much the color of his suit. Like a lean leonine god he stood in his doorway, plain while tollers offered for his inspection the fruits of the earth.

"Nope. Can't use that lot, Jake. Runty. H'm. Wa-a-l, guess you'd better take them farther up the street, Tunis. Edges look kind of brown, Willy."

Stowards from the best Chicago hotels of that day—the Sherman House, the Auditorium, the Palmer House, the Wellington, the Stratford—came to Will Talcott for their daily supplies. The grocers who catered to the well-to-do north side families and those in the neighborhood of fashionable Prairie Avenue on the south bought of him.

Now, in his doorway, he eyed the weary little figure that appeared before him all in rust, black, with its strained anxious face, its great deep-sunk eyes.

"Dejong, eh? Sorry to hear about your love, ma'am. Peruvus was a fine lad. No great shakes at truck farming though. His widow, hm? Him here. He saw 'em no dull-witted farm woman; no old Dutch woman, truckster. He went out to her wagon, twasked the lot's brown truck. 'Wa'al now, Miss Dejong, you got a right smart lot of garden stuff here and it looks pretty good. Yeah, pretty good. But you're too late. Ten, pret' near."

"Oh, no!" cried Selma. "Oh, no! Not too late!" And at the agony in her voice he looked at her sharply.

"Ten you want, maybe I can move half of 'em along for you. But stuff can't keep this weather. Turns wilted and my trade won't touch it. First trip in."

PAPERMAKERS BOW TO OSHKOSH INDIANS, 5 TO 3

Smith Outpitched In Every Inning But His Support Wins Contest

Indians Take Three-run Lead in Third but Appleton Club Ties Score in Fourth Stanza.

Scalped!!!

Appleton Sunday afternoon lost its second game this year when the Oshkosh Indians defeated the Papermakers, 5 to 3, in a hardfought contest at Grand park. Stack outpitched Smith, but lacked strong support with the stick and in the field. Several errors by the Papermakers also helped to make it easy for the Tribe, which bunched its hits and profited by almost every chance. Oshkosh took a three-run lead in the third, but did not hold it long. In the fourth stanza, 2 two-baggers, a single, an error and a walk gave the Papermakers enough tallies to tie the score, and the next two innings failed to tip the balance. A run in the sixth for the Indians and another in the ninth again put them on top, and excellent fielding kept the Appleton club scoreless for the rest of the contest.

Bixby, Keating and Wilson, the first three men up, connected with Stack's offerings, but of the three Keating was the only one who reached first. The speedy third baseman stole second, reached third on Durham's single, but was thrown out at the plate by Briemaler who retrieved the ball off Durham's bat and made a wonderful play. Home, Briemaler started for Appleton with a safety through third, but got no further than the first station. Welsgerber attempted to duck a wide one and in doing so struck the apple with his bat. Smith caught it and proceeded to strike Sylvester out. On the final strike, Briemaler tried to steal second, but Runke beat him to it with his throw to Williams.

STACK GOES GOOD

In the next inning, the first man to face Stack got a safety, but the next three slammed at bad ones and went down, one, two, three. Smith pulled down T. Lamers and Bergeron by the strikeout route and Bixby made a wonderful catch of Marty Lamers' high fly. The Indians drew first blood in the third. With two men down Keating and Wilson slammed out a single apiece and both crossed the home plate when Durham poled a two bagger. Schulz also poled a safety, and while Sylvester was fumbling the ball, Durham reached home safely. However, Schulz was not different. Eddie Reiter, who recovered the ball and threw to Bergeron. In the fourth, Marty Lamers got under a high foul off Dilts' bat after a sprint from third to the dugout, aiding considerably in keeping Wilson from scoring on his single and steal, and in the second half things began to look dark for Oshkosh.

Welsgerber, the first man up, knocked a two-bagger out into center field. Sylvester helped him to third with a single, and reached second himself when T. Lamers took first on a ball. Bergeron socked a sizzler to second where Williams fumbled it, allowing Amby to score and Sylvester to reach third, but beating Bergeron to first. Sylvester was sent across the rubber by M. Lamers' double, and Marty made third when Babinness fled out to Durham. Smith had a lot of respect for Stack's stick and walked his rival, Stack who by no means a speedster on his plin, easily stole second, but got no farther, as Fahstrom popped one up which hit him as he ran for first.

SCORE IS TIED
With the score tied, 2 to 2, both teams threatened up. With two men down, Sylvester, who had hit a single, attempted to steal but was caught at second. In the sixth, Marty Lamers booted Williams' grounder. Williams stole second and was brought in by Runke's two-bagger. Runke also stole third, but Stack closed up and retired third man with three straight strikes.

The Papermakers tried for a comeback in the seventh when Babinness started with an extra base hit and was sent to third by Stack's safety. However, Fahstrom and Briemaler struck out, and Babinness was caught between third and home. Ted Lamers made a wonderful running stop of a hot grounder off Williams' stick in the eighth and pegged it to first with plenty of time to spare. Three Appleton batters poled popups in rapid succession in the ninth, each of which fell in the hands of ready fielders.

The Papermakers failed to profit by their single remaining chance in the ninth, while Dilts' homer with no one on gave the Indians another run in the final stanza.

Goodman May Replace Abe As Champion

Cleveland — The present ruler of the bantamweight division is a Jewish boxer, one Abe Goldstein. The next ruler of the division may be a Jewish boy, too, namely Charley Goodman.

Like Goldstein, Goodman is a New Yorker. Goodman leaped to national fame over night by knocking out Carl Tremaine, local star, in seven rounds in a recent bout.

Goodman connected with a short right jab to the jaw and Tremaine dropped like a lead brick. What Goodman lacks in cleverness he makes up for in durability and offensive strength. He is one of Goldstein's real rivals.

Neenah-Menasha which was idle in the state league Sunday retained its place at the top but was joined there by Sheboygan when the Chairs defeated Fond du Lac. Appleton dropped a notch when the Indians came out on top in their tilt here, while Green Bay climbed one higher at the expense of Kaukauna which has yet to win a game.

Sunday's results strengthen the prediction that it will be a close race between six of the seven teams in the McGilligan loop this year. Oshkosh and Green Bay both won their contests, and the Red Legs, although they lost their tilt, made an excellent showing against Sheboygan.

"Stormy" Kromer's homeplayers had no chance whatever against the Green Bay outfit, although the latter lacked its regular pitcher, Earl Howard, who has jumped the club.

GREEN BAY SWAMPS KAUKAUNA, 11 TO 2

Green Bay—Stormy Kromer's team representing Kaukauna, was handed an 11 to 2 walling by Green Bay here on Sunday in a state league game. Gertz got off to a bad start in the opening game and after that the visitors never had a chance. The Bays fattened their batting averages with fourteen sound wallops. Zink and Lewis getting a home run each. Eddie Stumpf starred for Kaukauna.

WILLS WILL FIGHT MADDEN FOR CHANCE AT JACK AND FIRPO

Monday Night Battle Will Be Harry's First Real One in Two Years

By Associated Press
New York—The right to meet Lulu Firpo and Jack Dempsey will be a special incentive to victory for Harry Wills Monday night when he meets Bartley Madden in a 15-round bout at the new Queensboro stadium. This will be Wills' first real battle in two years and will mark the first successful attempt out of five efforts to bring the heavyweights together during the past six months. Injuries to Wills and interference by fire department officials prevented the other four scheduled bouts.

The experts are practically unanimous in predicting victory for Wills. Madden, however, is confident he can stop his opponent in eight rounds.

It is generally conceded that Wills must put Madden away in order to prove himself a worthy challenger of Dempsey.

In spite of the heavy rainfall Sunday there was a heavy demand for tickets for Monday night's fight. Among the more critical observers will be Tex Rickard, who hopes to match Wills and Dempsey at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City later in the summer.

After the main event a semi-final will be staged between Pete August of Bridgeport and Tommy O'Brien of Ireland. The bout which ranks second in interest to the Wills-Madden contest, however, is that between Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo who defeated Young Stribling and Jack Lynch, Arizona middleweight.

Racine—The Racine High school golf team successfully defended its state title at the second annual Wisconsin high school golf tourney, which closed here at noon Saturday, by taking the team event with a total of 457. Hartland was second with a total of 457. Hartland was second with a total of 457. Hartland was second with a total of 457.

The Black and Gold colors were also carried into first place in the individual list when Edward Lehman, star of the Racine team, completed the two rounds of 36 holes in 144. His card follows: 35, 39, 34, 36—144.

Robert Ruston, Racine, runner-up in last year's tourney, was second with 153. Elmer Weyer, of Wash. Ington high, Milwaukee, third with 155. Howard Hakala, third member of the local team, finished fourth with a 160 card, while Alfred Radde of South Milwaukee and Grant Jorgenson of Hartland tied for fifth place with 161. GREENVILLE WINS FROM DALE, 12 TO 8

Grangers Outthit Hometeam, 17 to 8, in Oldfashioned Swatfast

South Greenville Grange baseball team Sunday afternoon humbled the Dale team, 12 to 8, in an oldfashioned swatfast at Dale. Nixon allowed but 8 hits and struck out 12 Dale batsmen, while Koch struck out three batters and allowed 17 hits.

A freak home run for each club delivered the play, when the ball was twice lost in the high grass. The Greenville men hit Koch hard and often, but were at a disadvantage up to the sixth, when they scored four runs. Dale had taken a 4-run lead in the second when it brought in six tallies, but the invaders more than offset the difference in the fifth and sixth with 3 and 4 respectively.

Browns Hand Yankees First Shutout, 5-0, In Second Straight Win

Four First Division Teams of Ban Johnson's Circuit Bow to Quartet of Trailers in Sunday Tilts.

Discontent among the bourgeoisie of the big leagues, evidenced by sporadic uprisings of individual clubs, has assumed the proportions of full rebellion in the American circuit. New York and Boston, tied for the leadership, and Detroit one game behind a triumvirate which has dominated Ban Johnson's organization for several weeks with Washington, which recently joined the first division forces, were Sunday defeated in a mass attack by the lower four insurgents lost their leader, St. Louis, which moved into fourth place as Washington dropped to fifth. The Browns defeated the world's champion for the second consecutive day, as Danforth outpitched Penneck and gave the Yankees their first shutout of the year, 5 to 0. Four double plays by his infield supported the southpaw.

White Sox were stronger than Red Sox as the Pale Hose abandoned their hitless tactics and fell upon three Boston pitchers for a 10 to 3 victory, featured by the daring base running and fielding of the speedy Archdeacon, who after making a circus catch, scored unaided after a pass, by stealing second, taking third on Plimch's poor throw and then pilfered third. Thurston pitched well for Chicago.

INDIANS BEAT NATIONALS
Chicago, evading attempts by Philadelphia to force the Indians into the cellar, scored an equally decisive triumph over Washington, 11 to 9. Coveleskie hurled steadily while his mates assaulted three Senator batters. The Athletics continued their pursuit of Speaker's tribe, by getting a nearly lead off Stoner which Dennis Burns retained under a strong tiger for the attack for a 6 to 5 victory.

In the only two games scheduled in the National, the Giants maintained their one-game lead over Chicago by defeating Pittsburgh, 7 to 0, in a five-inning contest, as the Cubs beat Brooklyn, 8 to 5, in seven innings. Rain stopped both games which were thrilling even though short.

Wagon, Giant hurler coming to bat after Morrison, had intentionally passed off Gowdy and filled the bases, hit the first ball pitched for the only home run of his major league career. Ross Young contributed another homer with two on for the other New York scores. High of Brooklyn smashed for the circuit with two on in a last inning rally which was not sufficient to match Chicago's early lead.

Leslie Mann, outfielder, has been purchased from Cincinnati by the Boston Nationals with whom he saw service in 1913, 1914, 1919 and 1920.

CITY BOYS BUILD BASEBALL LEAGUE; START THIS WEEK

From Eight to Ten Clubs Expected to Join at Monday Meeting

Eight or ten teams are expected to send representatives to the second meeting of City Boys Baseball league officials at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night for the final organization of the loop. Five managers attended the first convocation Friday, and these brought reports indicating that as many more might be expected at the next meeting.

The teams already in the circuit are the Cardinals, T. N. T's, Cavemen, Post Crescents, Third Ward Cubs, Lower Fourths, Jail Birds and Pikes Peaks.

No boys over 16 years of age will be permitted to play in the league. Each team will make a deposit with the treasurer of the loop, the amount to be determined by an executive council which is to be composed of the captains and managers of the various teams. At the close of the season this deposit will be returned to the clubs which have finished the schedule.

The first contests of the circuit probably will be played either on Wednesday or Saturday.

The meeting Monday night is scheduled to start at 8 P. M.

MANDELL MEETS JOHNNY DUNDEE

By Associated Press
Chicago—Sammy Mandell, Rookford, Ill., will get the severest test of his career at East Chicago, Ind., Monday night when he faces Johnny Dundee world's featherweight and junior lightweight champion. Likewise it will be a test for Dundee, because Mandell, who recently outgrew the bantamweight division, is a fast, shifty boxer and a fairly heavy hitter. They are scheduled to box ten rounds at 134 pounds.

Harry Mason chairman of the European lightweight championship, and Billy McHann of Cleveland, will meet in another ten-round, no decision bout, and Earl McArthur of Sioux City, Ia., and Eddie Shea of Chicago will clash in a third ten-rounder at 122 pounds.

DRIVER OF DEATH CAR IS IN TROUBLE

The same automobile that figured in the crash which resulted in the death of Benjamin Claassen at Kimberly on April 20 was pursued by John Frenzi, a county motorcycle officer, on the Little Chute road Sunday. Frenzi charged that the owner, two-lane E. Hanges, was performing a series of reckless maneuvers, cutting in on automobiles, squeaking between them and narrowly missed damaging a Dodge automobile. A warrant charging reckless driving was issued against Hanges. He did not appear in municipal court Monday but was represented by Homer & Grogan. WITTENBERG MAN IS INDORSED FOR STATE SENATOR

Farmer-Labor Progressive League Unites on Candidate for Legislature

In the last senatorial campaign must be avoided this year.

"At that time," he said, "there were two progressives in the field and the division of the support of these two candidates resulted in the election of a reactionary."

"We are here tonight to endorse a candidate for state senator, and I will say that whoever is endorsed by this body tonight will be the next senator from the fourteenth district."

That being the case, as he saw it, President Bachman emphasized the need of using the greatest care and discretion, and cautioned against undue haste in making a choice. The meeting was then thrown open for nominations and discussion of the merits and qualifications of candidates.

MILLER AND BALLARD

The Assemblyman Miller was placed in nomination by Fred Ziegler, Appleton, vice president of the county farmer-labor organization, who made a brief speech in the assemblyman's behalf.

Joseph Murphy, representing the Trades and Labor council of Kaukauna, then nominated C. B. Ballard of Grand Chute, explaining that the latter had the endorsement of the Kaukauna labor ranks.

The only other nomination for senator was that of John Englund whose name was submitted by Assemblyman August Beversdorf of Shawano.
